Dear Madison:

Hunger at Home has done an incredible job of supporting the survivors of the recent San José floods who are staying at the Seven Trees Emergency Shelter. HomeFirst is grateful for the following specific donations:

03/05/2017	150 individually packaged gourmet salads and sandwiches
03/07/2017	200 breakfast burritos
03/15/2017	Dinner for 150
03/29/2017	Dinner for 150
04/05/2017	Dinner for 75

In addition, we picked up 200 large bolsters that were an enormous hit with the residents. I was delighted to see some finding comfort in using them as body pillows, some using them to keep their youngest children safe from rolling off onto the floor or as props for nursing infants. Just yesterday, of the 30 or so individuals still sleeping at the shelter I saw them tucked into bedding our guests will be taking to their new temporary residences.

04/06/2017 5 pallets of china for distribution to clients who are homeless, but moving into their own home

Thank you!

Your willingness to help out in any way possible and to find a grateful 'home' for these varied items that serve our homeless clients so well.

Best,

Stephanie Demos
