HUNGER ACTION MONTH

MICHELLE
FOOD DONATION RECIPIANT

Michelle is a retired senior who relies on our weekly food distribution program to make ends meet. She also picks up food for her neighbor who is homebound.

A time for communities to fight food insecurity together

September is Hunger Action Month and it couldn't come at a more important time. With inflation at a 40-year high, families are facing impossible choices between putting food on the table or paying for rent, gas, medications and other needs. When facing difficult times, food can often be the first thing people forgo to make ends meet.

At Hunger at Home, we are also facing increased operational costs. We are paying more for fuel, transportation, and energy including cooling and refrigeration. Despite these challenges, each week thousands of families are counting on us to help keep them afloat. Many of you have asked, "how can I help?"

There are many ways you can join the fight to end food insecurity:

- JOIN OUR SUPPER CLUB - Members make a recurring donation and become dependable partners in helping us end food insecurity everyday.
- VOLUNTEER - We rely on the support of volunteers to help distribute and sort food. Sign up today.
- DONATE - From starting a fundraising campaign, choosing us as a charity of choice through AmazonSmile or attending our Gala, your donations make implementing our mission possible.
- SPREAD THE WORD - Tell your family and friends about the needs of our community and encourage them to get involved in our efforts.

Volunteers pass out prepared meals, groceries and pantry goods at our weekly food distribution at Pay Pal Park. Making friends and spreading cheer is part of the fun!
